Lost Children Tara Up.

Chief of Police Smith yesterday received notice that two small boys, Dunlap McAdam, aged ten, and John McAdam, aged eight, sons of Prof. McAdam, of Wash-Jeft. College, were lost, and he was asked to keep a lookout for them here. Officer Deku made a tour of inspection, but could not find them. The INTELLIGENCER received intelligence last night that the children had been found at Canonsburg, Pa., where they slept all night in the rolling mill. Their loss created great excitement at Washington. They left home because their older sister "teased them," and walked to Canonsburg, where darkness overtook them. Lost Children Turn Up.

The general protest that has been sent up in all parts of the city and among all classes of natural gas consumers over the recent advance in rates, is to take the form of a formal protest to be made at a mass meeting of citizens. A call was put in circulation last evening for a general mass meeting of consumers, to be held in the Police Court room next Wednesday evening, at which time a formal protest will be made that will, it is expected, carry considerable weight with it. The call is headed with the name of a prominent iron manufacturer.
